

Ellison Grant, originally from Chatsworth, Georgia, began her dance journey at just 18 months old and started competing at age five. She continued training and competing throughout her school years, developing skills in a variety of styles, including lyrical, jazz, tap, acro, and hip-hop, with lyrical and jazz being her favorites to teach. Now in her third year with WGDC, Ellison teaches across a wide range of classes and enjoys sharing her passion for dance with students of all ages and skill levels. She loves the supportive and welcoming atmosphere at WGDC and cherishes the opportunity to work with kind, talented, and eager-to-learn dancers. In addition to her dedication to dance, Ellison is passionate about caring for others and is currently pursuing a nursing degree at the University of West Georgia, with plans to specialize in pediatrics or labor and delivery. She is thrilled to continue inspiring and guiding the next generation of performers
