

A woman with blonde hair tied up, wearing a light blue denim shirt and black boots, stands in a doorway. She is looking towards the camera with a slight smile. The background is a bright, overexposed doorway. The text is overlaid on a semi-transparent white box in the center of the image.

Samantha Welch has been dancing for 14 years, training extensively in ballet, tap, pointe, hip hop, contemporary, lyrical, jazz, modern, acro, and more. She grew up as a competitive dancer, attending numerous conventions and competitions each year. Samantha is a professional member of Movement the Company, a contemporary-based company where she performs in shows, concept videos, and workshops throughout the year. After graduating high school, Samantha began working as both an instructor and choreographer at multiple studios across Georgia, teaching students ranging from 18 months to 18 years old. After starting her family in Columbus, GA, she returned to her hometown, eager to rejoin and invest in her local dance community. Samantha is passionate about instruction and choreography, and she pours her heart into every student she works with. Her greatest joy comes from seeing her students grow, succeed, and find happiness through dance.
